

Transform Your Open Enrollment Process

6 Reasons to Add Decision Support

1 Employees Need Personalized Guidance

Data shows that employees feel frustrated and confused heading into a new plan year. You can overcome that frustration and save both HR and the broker precious time (and headaches) by helping employees identify the benefits products that best suit their needs.

2 Voluntary Benefits Need Attention

Voluntary benefits are often a unique solution that needs a personalized, prescriptive approach—while also protecting the employee's benefits budget. PERKY's decision support tool can help showcase voluntary benefit options and give appropriate guidance on elections.

3 Employers + Brokers Have Enough On Their Plate

Tracking down employees to make sure they're enrolling is exhausting. Now add hosting simultaneous informational sessions to your regular workload and inevitably, things can slip through the cracks. PERKY's decision support tool includes education on benefit options and drives the employee right to the enrollment system to confirm elections.

4 You Need A Realistic + Scalable Solution

This is the magic of integrating an awesome decision support tool: we do all the heavy lifting to simply enhance your platform offerings. We stay on top of the decision support technology, trends, and data so you don't have to. Plus, there's flexibility in customizing what parts of the decision support are utilized. Win-win-win!

5 Employees Need Guidance, Not Jargon

Benefits are inherently confusing. Use PERKY to answer the most frequently asked questions so that you, brokers, and HR can be available for the people and projects that need you the most. Plus, employees can trust that the guidance is accurate, reliable, and easy to use.

6 Enrollments Need to Be Virtual

In the absence of in-person group presentations or one-on-one meetings, a personalized, interactive guide can help employees better understand their benefits and save time for everyone during a busy open enrollment season.

We're in uncharted territory with remote work at an all-time high. Set yourself up for success in the future and be prepared for virtual open enrollments.

Ready to chat?

Email hello@perkytech.com today.

ABOUT PERKY

We are proud to lead the way in decision support technology and help our users make the best decisions regarding their health, wealth, and voluntary benefits. We believe employees are intelligent, hardworking people who deserve personalized and reliable guidance.